Rapid Transit.

It was quite late in the afternoon of a hot July day that the Maxwells' new turnout arrived at the door for a trial trip. Mrs. Maxwell had prevailed upon her husband to invest in a horse and carriage upon the plea that their standing in society demanded it.

'But the expense, my dear!' he opposed.

'Respectability is always more or less expensive; but in this case it is a question whether we are to be nobody or somebody,' she retorted. So he reluctantly yielded.

It was to Flickem, the livery man, they were indebted for the solution of the problem of how to get a reliable horse for a small outlay of money. The horse was guranteed to have spirit—a "sine quo non" with the lady herself—and to go at a good 'clip' when warmed up.

'Why didn't you buy a cow, George?' she said, looking over the animal's points, and mentally sizing him up. 'He is fearfully and wonderfully made,' she added.

Mr. Maxwell rubbed his smooth chin and smilingly quoted the horseman's proverb: "'Appearances are deceitful, you know, Mary, and he may be a great deal better than he looks.'"

Mrs Maxwell was critically examining his points from her own view of such matters; the arched neck, and distended nostrils, and eager eye were all missing. Her eye followed along the hollow of his camel-shaped back and rested in disgust upon the rough, stumpy tail. The legs, without which in good shape a horse is nothing, were his redeeming possessions. They were clean and slender, terminating in well-built and small hoofs.

'No spirit; no speed. He'll have to be clubbed every step of the way. But, as he is here, we'll try him, George.'

They started off at a walk, the horse refusing to be urged into a trot by the gentle persuasion of a chirrup or the shaking of the lines over his back.

'I would not do that,' remonstrated Mr. Maxwell, as his wife took out the whip; 'at least not till we've sized him up a little.'

'I sized him up some time ago,' said the wife, emphasizing her statement by a quick cut across his flanks.

Dexter responded simply by wagging his stumpy tail as though a fly had alighted upon him.

'This is exhilerating,' said Mrs. Maxwell, frowning at her husband.

'Flickem said he would go at a good clip when he got warmed up,' observed Mr. Maxwell, consolingly.

'Oh, is that it! Then I'll warm him up, for he is evidently not the horse of the psalmist, that must be 'held in by bit and bridle.' And the irate woman proceeded to warm him with the whip.

A very gentle sort of dog trot was the maximum result of these attentions.

'That is his "good clip,"' I suppose,' said Mrs. Maxwell, scornfully. 'Let's go home and get a goat.'

'Perhaps he will do better after a while,' suggested the husband. 'Give him a chance.'

The couple had proceeded about a mile from home when at this juncture a sound of wheels was heard coming from behind at a rapid rate. Old Dexter was alert in a moment; his ears were laid back, his head raised high, and a sort of tremor seemed to pass from his head all the way down to his heels. As the light buggy drawn by a livery trotter came abreast of the Maxwell's, old Dexter made a spring forward and was pawing the ground at a rate that caused the Maxwells to hold their breath. Mr. Maxwell reached for the lines, but his wife waved him off. She straightened up, and leaning back, braced her feet firmly against the iron foot-rest, and with a good grip upon the lines, they were off like the wind. Her eyes sparkled with excitement and her face flushed with pleasure; she seemed to enjoy the brush full as well as Dexter did. It was only a short spurt, however; the buggy drew up at a saloon, while the driver, a young man, smiled at the Maxwells. But, as the sleek bay horse slackened speed, so did black Dexter, and in spite of Mrs. Maxwell's urging, he resumed his former dog trot.

'Whew!' exclaimed Mr. Maxwell. 'The man was right, after all. Flickem said he could go at a good clip.'

'He has some spirit,' said the wife, arranging her disordered hair and hat; 'but a horse without spirit is no better than a woman without any. I like a horse that can go; but I suppose we shall have always to go out driving in company with another conveyance, in order to get him warmed up.'

A little further on they struck a straight, level road running parallel with the railroad track, which is followed, but a few rods distant, for nearly two miles.

Dexter was sauntering on leisurely, ignoring the admonitions and reproofs of Mrs. Maxwell, who was trying, in vain, to awaken him to another burst of speed, when an engine whistle was heard screaming in the rear, and turning his head Mr. Maxwell saw a train approaching them rapidly from the distance.

'Flickem says he is not afraid of the cars, nor of anything, in fact,' he remarked reassuringly.

'I don't think he is afraid of anything except an exhibition of his leg power,' laughed Mrs. Maxwell, but, at the same time bracing up ready for an emergency, and getting a tight grip upon the reins.

Dexter woke up from his revery, too, and all the signs of a coming struggle were made manifest in his entire frame, as before. With great sagacity, and apparent prevision, as though he had measured the turf before with such a rival, he gave his initiatory spring before the engine was up to him, and Mr. Maxwell again essayed to assist in holding him in; but his wife motioned him off with her head, and retained command. It was like pulling against a sturdy oak tree, pulling against the mouth of that horse. Away they went with a dash, and then Dexter just settled down to steady work. They were madly racing with the locomotive and its long train of human freight. The grimy engineer was the first to discover the novel competition in speed and, leaning from his cab, he gave the Maxwells an encouraging smile and an inviting wave of his sooty hand. The fireman supplemented the invitation by waving his red handkerchief, and grinning his approval. The engineer put his hand to the lever and the train shot ahead, but Dexter was no laggard now, and he held his own at a point on a line with the middle of the train.

The interest in the novel race had by this time extended to the passengers on the train, and the windows on the side nearest the Maxwells were full of excited human beings. There was one grave and astonished face on the train looking at them, which Mr. Maxwell recognized. It was old Deacon Pettit. Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell were members in good standing of the church in which Mr. Pettit officiated as deacon.

'I could never have believed this of the Maxwells, had I not seen it myself,' he was saying.

Just as Deacon Pettit caught sight of, and recognized the occupants of the flying buggy, a sudden jolt had deprived Mrs. Maxwell of her bonnet, which went floating away to the rear, and she sat now braced backward tugging at the lines with a very red face, her long hair streaming out like a pennant. Amidst the cheers of the passengers and the noise of the train, Mr. Maxwell sat like a statue, knowing that their case was hopeless till the road ended or the train stopped. Glancing ahead, they saw that the wagon road turned off short to the left, while the rails kept straight on. Their only hope was to be able to turn Dexter to the left and follow the road. The boy was taking out the bars. The Maxwells were almost at the turn of the road, and the brute showed no signs of slacking or turning.

'George, he is going to take the fence!' screamed Mrs Maxwell. He's a hunter! Pull! pull!' she cried, holding the left hand toward him. 'Will the boy never get the rails out?'

Maxwell pulled as he had been directed, and with such strength that the line parted at the middle splice. But had he pulled against the fence post he would have turned it as easily as he could the horse. They were upon the boy, who dropped the last rail, and the three rails lay in a heap over which the buggy bounded high in the air, leaving Mr. Maxwell's hat at the feet of the boy, and Mrs. Maxwell in a heap in the bottom of the buggy. On they sped across the ten acre lot, and the man, who had been on the alert, had already opened another passage way at the far side into his barnyard. Here Dexter called a sudden halt, which landed the couple in a confused mass at the bottom of the vehicle.

Had it not been for the noise of the trains as they neared the turn in the road, the Maxwells might have heard Farmer Bates yell to his wife, as he ran out and sent his boy flying to the bars:

'There comes old Dexter, as sure as fate.'

To which Mrs. Bates had replied:

'Yes, I knowed he'd take the first chance he got to come home agin.'

'He 'pears to be in a hurry, too,' said the farmer, grinning.

Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell presented a rather sorry appearance at their improvised call upon Mr. Bates. Mrs. Maxwell was also furnished with a cheap straw hat to wear home.

'He's a queer kind of horse, Dexter is,' said Mr. Bates. 'Hev you been buying him, sir?'

'Oh, no!' replied Mr. Maxwell; 'we only came out to try him a little.'

'He used to belong to me some years ago, but I guess he's been through a good many hands since I had him.'

'He has peculiarities,' chimed in Mrs. Bates; 'but then he's a werry friendly critter when you know 'im.'

'Yes, he is a little eccentric, I have already noticed,' assented Mr. Maxwell, rubbing his sore knees, and looking toward his wife.

The latter burst into laughter, in spite of her bruised and bedragged condition. It was some time before the Maxwells could bring themselves to face the prospect of another drive behind Dexter, but as Mr. Bates gave them some points about keeping a tight rein, so that he "could not take the bit," and also pointed out to them another route, quite remote from the railroad, they finally decided to get home as soon as possible, and get rid of the troublesome brute.

They proceeded for a time in silence, cautiously and with trembling, hoping that no incentive would come dashing up from behind to set Dexter off again. Once Mr. Maxwell, upon observing the old rascal's ears go up, turned, and, seeing a buggy coming in their rear, got out and led him to a fence, taking care to secure him with the tie-strap, and then pretended to be fixing something about the harness as the other buggy dashed by them at full speed. Dexter fairly danced with excitement.

'His peculiarities are ineradicable, I think,' Mrs. Maxwell remarked.

'He has carried them far enough for one trip. I shall be glad if we can get home without further mishap,' said Mr. Maxwell, getting into the buggy.

But fortunately their conversation had thrown them off their guard, and the unhappy man had hardly seated himself before Dexter went off with a sudden plunge that nearly threw them both from the carriage. They were entered for another heat, "nolens, volens."

'Come on!' shouted the occupant of the fatal vehicle, taking Dexter's start as a challenge for a friendly brush, and away they went, pell mell.

Mr. Maxwell, as they were flying along neck and neck, glanced at the driver of the other buggy, and, to his chagrin, discovered that he was one of the largest and wealthiest creditors, and the latter was not very long in identifying his rival in the mad race.

'Bad sign that; Maxwell dabbling in fast horses. I must keep an eye on his future transactions.'

Mr. Maxwell waved his hand deprecatingly, and shouted to his friend to slow up, hoping to end the involuntary race and to be able to explain matters. But Dilton mistook it for a confirmation of the challenge, and touched his own horse with the whip, and shot ahead a few lengths.

Dexter had a most detestable habit of starting off with a sudden jerk, much after the manner of the primitive locomotives, which gave rise to the disagreeable necessity of bracing one's self, and grasping the seat, also his method of stopping was equally abrupt. This little peculiarity was destined to make trouble for the Maxwells in the contest now going on. Coming to a brook, over which there was a good bridge, and through which also passed a wagon road for the convenience of watering animals, Dexter seemed suddenly to become aware of the presence, on his part, of intolerable thirst. So, instead of keeping to the road across the bridge, he plunged down the side road to the brook, where he came to an abrupt stop by planting his front feet out firmly in the middle of the shallow stream. Mr. Maxwell, not being in that firmly braced position which his wife, as driver of the determined beast, occupied, was thrown out into the muddy water, his hands and face filled with mud, and his heart with rage. The latter was in no measure allayed as he heard his wife almost shrieking with laughter from her more secure and comfortable perch.

'I really cannot help laughing,' she said, apologetically. 'I think I should have laughed if it had been myself in the water instead of you. It is only one of his "pecooliarities," I suppose.'

'"A horse is a vain thing for safety,"' quoted Mr. Maxwell, as he sat dripping in the buggy once more. 'If I am condemned to ride behind that spasmodic brute again, I shall insist upon having him handicapped with a heavily loaded wagon.'

Mrs. Maxwell had planned a little garden party for this afternoon, and her guests were already assembled upon the grounds awaiting the return of their hostess. When she left the house for a drive with old Dexter, half an hour was about the limit of time she had mentally allowed for that pastime; but fate and the locomotive and sundry other turnouts, together with the wilful brute Dexter, had ordered it otherwise. She was now nervously gazing ahead at the assembled group watching the appearance of the buggy, and feeling her old brown hat and her dishevelled hair, gazing also at the wet and much-bespattered man at her side.

The 'garden party' was a failure for that day. But to the deacon's wife an explanation was made which was satisfactory, and which restored confidence again to the troubled heart of good old Deacon Pettit. Also, to the rich creditor's wife, who was one of Mrs. Maxwell's guests, a sufficient reason was given for the new departure of the Maxwells in the mater of racing horses.

When rapid transit is being discussed now in the presence of the Maxwells, a rich color runs riot over Mrs. Maxwell's pretty face and her husband always manages adroitly to change the subject.

'But, Mary, I thought you liked a horse with some spirit?' said her husband afterward, alluding to their ride.

'I don't like spasmodic spirit, either in horse or woman' she retorted, with a slight frown; "nor do I admire any thing in the way of rapid transit accompanied by sudden and disastrous stops.'

Reading Aloud.

If you ask eight persons out of ten, now, they will tell you that they hate being read to. And why? Because from their childhood they have been unused to it, and used only to such a monotonous drone as robbed even the Arabian Nights of half their charm. The husband, at the end of a hard day's work, returns home to pass the evening absorbed in his book, or dozing over the fire, while the wife takes up her novel or knits in silence. If he read to her, or if he could tolerate her reading to him, there would be community of thought, interchange of ideas, and such discussions as the fushion of two minds into any common channel cannot fail to produce. And it is often the same when the circle is wider. I have known a large family pass the hours between each one with his book or work, afraid to speak above his breath because "it would disturb papa." Is this cheerful, or wise, or conducive to that close union in a household which is a bond of strength through life, which the world can neither give nor take away? I cannot blame them, for they all read abominably; and it is enough to have endured the infliction of family prayers gasped and mumbled by the head of the family, to feel listening to such a delivery for any length of time would exasperate one beyond endurance.

But it was not always so. In the last century—even as late as fifty years ago—reading aloud was regarded as an accomplishment worth the cultivation of those (especially those who lived in the country) with pretentions to taste; and it was consequently, far more frequently found enlivening the domestic circle. There were fewer books, fewer means of locomotion, fewer pleasures of winter nights outside the four walls of the country parlor. The game of cribage, or the sonata on the spinnet, did not occupy the entire evening after six o'clock dinner; and Shakespeare and Milton were more familiar to the young generation of those days than they are now—mainly, I feel persuaded, because they were accustomed to hear them read aloud. The ear, habituated to listen, is often a more safe conduit to the memory in youth, than the inattentive eye which rapidly skims a page.

The Ball that Wounded Hancock.

Dr. Lewis W. Read, of Norristown, thus relates the circumstances of General Hancock's recovery from his wound received at Gettysburg: "I was medical director of the Pennsylvania Reserves, and just before the first of November, 1865, I came home on twenty-four hours leave of absence. I called to see the General, who was in bed at his father's residence. I found him very much disheartened. He had grown thin, and looked pale and emaciated. He said he felt as if he was going to die, and that he had been probed and tortured to such an extent that death would be a relief. I endeavored to cheer him up, and as I was about bidding him farewell he said: 'Good bye, Doctor; I may never see you again.'

'I had my hand on the door knob of his chamber when he said: 'See here, Doctor, why don't you try to get this ball out. I have had all the reputation in the country at it; now let's have some of the practical.'

'He was lying in the bed with his wounded limb actually fixed, and all the probing had been done with his leg bent at right angles. The ball had hit him just below the right groin, within an inch of the femoral artery, while he was sitting in the saddle with his legs distended. I went down to my office for a probe with a concealed blade and on my return Dr. Cooper and myself succeded in straightening the limb and placing it as near as possible in the position it was when the ball struck him. I inserted the probe and it dropped fully eight inches into the channel and struck the ball, which was imbedded in the sharp bone which you sit upon. In a week's time the General was out on crutches, and in two weeks more he attended a Masonic gathering at Odd Fellow's Hall. I forget the caliber of the bullet, but it was a big Minie ball."

Furtunes Made in Old Corks.

'You wouldn't think a man could make a fortune selling old corks and bottles, would you? Well, I know a man who bought out a coffin shop twenty-five years ago and began to deal in old corks. Eight years ago he went into the old bottle business, and he is now a rich man.' The policeman who said this took the writer down Mulberry street, and a few blocks below Bleecker stopped before a rickety old building, in front of which stood several barrels filled with bottles of all sizes. There were bottles emptied of Vino Vermouth, Piper Sec and Rhine wine, of Bass' ale, claret and stomach bitters. Inside the shop were seen the necks of a thousand bottles, ponted toward the door like little howitzers. They were pilled up and boxed up and were in rows on the floor. From the roof hung dingy demijohns, covered with cobwebs, and in the centre of the room was a barrel of old champagne corks

'How many corks have you sold today, Hugh?' asked the policeman.

'Eight barrels.'

'How many bottles?'

'Seventy-five gross. You see we never take the labels off, and never wash the bottles. The men who buy wine bottles want the labels as well as the bottles—sometimes want the labels much more than the bottles; but we do not deal in labels. When a junkman comes in with a load of bottles he may have twenty different kinds. We sort them. When we get a gross of a certain kind we know where to sell them. A gross of quart campagne bottles fetches $4.50; pints $2.25. Claret bottles sell for $3.75 per gross, and so do soda water bottles. Bass' ale is worth $2.25, but for Rhine wine bottles we get $6 per gross. 'Tom' gins and stomach bitters go at $4; porter and Vino Vermouth at $2.25. Apollinaris, quarts, we sell for $5 per gross, and pints at $3.25. A gallon demijohn is only worth 20 cents, but larger beer bottles with the patent stoppers bring $8 per gross. Root beer bottles sell for $6, while ginger ales only fetch $1.50. We sell Hathorn, Congress and Geyser bottles back to the mineral spring men in Saratoga for 3 cents per dozen. Most of the small bottles are bought by catsup and table sauce makers. We don't buy medicine bottles. We sell very little stock to medicine men.

'You know a champagne cork has a sound head and is turned from the bark. It is not cut out as straight corks are made. When it pops from the bottle the head is cut up by the string and the cork looks like a mushroom. We put them all in a big kettle of boiling water and swell them. Then they're as good as new. Ordinary sound corks sell for twenty-five cents per gross, but corks from champagne bottles, made with more labor, bring $2.50. We have handled enough corks in the past twenty-five years to float the Great Eastern.'

Artemus Ward on Editors.

Artemus Ward, speaking of editors, says: "Before you go for an editor, young man, pause and take a big think! Look around, and see if there is not an omnibus or some meat cart to drive, some soil somewhere to be tilled or a clerkship to be filled—anything that is reputable or healthy, rather than going for an editor, which is a bad business at best. We are not a horse, and consequently have not been called upon to furnish the motive power for a threshing machine, but we fancy that the life of an editor who is forced to write, whether he feels like it or not, is much like the steed in question. If the yeas and neighs could be obtained, we believe that the intelligent horse would decide that the threshing machine is preferable to the sanctum editorial. The editor's work is never done. He is drained incessantly, and no wonder that he dries up prematurely. Other people can attend banquets, weddings, etc, visit halls of dazzling light, and enjoy themselves in a variety of ways, but the editor cannot. He must tenaciously stick to the quill. The press, like a sick baby, must not be left to run by itself even for a day, or somebody indignantly orders the carrier-boy to stop bringing 'that paper. There is nothing in it; I won't have it in the house.'"

THE LIME-KILN CLUB.

A Discussion About Watchwords—Days to Celebrate, &c.

When the meeting had been opened in due form Brother Gardner said:

'It has been suggested by seberal members dat dis club orter hev a watch-word. We started out wid one but it somehow got lost in de bushes an' nobody eber went back too look fur it. While I has no pertickler objeckshun to a watchword, my experience wid 'em has taught me dat dey has got to be put up in a good deal of sugar to be of any 'count.

'Liberty or Death' am a good watchword, if picked at de right season of de year, but it won't prevent butes from wearing out nor chillin' from cryin' fur bread.

"I once knowed a man who took de watchword of 'Dar Am Room at de Top.' He kept it in his pocket all day and put it under his pillar at night. In two y'ars he was in de poo'house. He found room on de top floo'.

"I knowed anoder man who 'dopted de watchword of 'Neber Despair.' It hit him exactly. When his wife was b'arfut, his chili'en hungry an' his rent two months behind he put on a smilin' face an' thought of his watchword. He sat on de fence in de summer, an' sot by de saloon stove in de winter, an de las' I heard of him he was in jail fur six months fur pickin' up property belongin' to anoder man.

"It ain't in de motto so much as in de man. You kin shout: 'Upward an' Onward!' an' still go down hill all de time. While I has no intenshun of bein' personal, I would suggest de follerin' personal watchwords:

"Samuel Shin: 'Let Policy Alone.'

"Whalebone Howker: 'Sell Off Some o' Yer Dogs.'

"Pickles Smith: 'Laziness am de doah to States Prison.'

"Trustee Pullback: 'De man who libs off his nayburs shouldn't growl ober de fare'

"Rotunda Jackson: 'De man who has too much gab am wuss off than a dumb man.'

"De subject am one which will keep, an' any of you who am deeply interested can bring it up at de next meetin'.

Judge Chewso arose to ask for information. He had heard dozens of people inquire why the club did not celebrate Washington's birthday, and he would now ask the reason.

"Mo' dan two y'ars ago, sah," replied the President with considerable austerity, "dis club resolved to celebrate but once a y'ar, an' it was furder decided to combine Thanksgivin', Christmas an' New Y'ar's into one gineral holiday an' call it Thankschrisyear's. If members would post up on purceedin's it might save 'em mo or less embarrassment."

"Doan' we celebrate Fo'th of July?" asked the Judge.

"Not as a body. If anybody wants to drink lemonade, eat cokernuts and foller a brass band aroun' town dar am no objeegshuns, but sich of us as prefer to sot down under de plum tree in de back yard an' feel sorry kin not be deprived of de privilege by any ackshun of de club. We will now escape homewards."—Detroit Free Press.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND's proposition to have a national board of arbitration to settle disputes between employers and employes is certainly a good one and those who do not favor the idea should hold their peace until they can present a better plan for settling the existing labor difficulties.

HIGBEE and Sayers, the reputed Orphans' Schools officials, of past glory, now put on defiant airs, the former bluntly refusing to comply with the Governor's request for his resignation, the latter attacking him in an open letter, in which he states that he will have his case investigated by other authority before submitting to the will of the governor. That is generally the way with such rascals, when caught in tight corners they show fight.

The case is daily growing of more interest and it remains to be seen if there is no way of getting rid of the defective services of Higbee. Gov. Pattison will certainly make sure that he is right and then go ahead.

THE congressional committee appointed to investigate the labor troubles in the Southwest, and which consists of seven members, with Hon. A. G. Curtin at the head, last week heard the statement of Grandmaster Powderly and other officers of the Knights of Labor organization. Mr. Powderly laid the grievances of the laboring classes on the Gould railroad lines before the committee in a clear convincing manner. The question now remains, will Gould's millions weigh heavier in the eyes of the committee than the honest and manly statements of Powderly. We are sure of one thing however, and that is, that Ex-Gov. Curtin, who, as many of our readers will recollect, has no particular love for railroad corporations and their despotic kings, will firmly stand on the side of labor, irrespective of what the rest of the committee may think or do.

On Monday a bill was introduced in the house by Mr. McComas (Md.) authorizing the above committee to investigate disputes between mine owners and miners in the bituminous coal regions of Pennsylvania, Maryland and West Virginia.

THE INFLUENCE OF A HOME.

It is an old adage that in "the multiplicity of homes there is safety to the State." This is proved in these troublous industrial times by the fact that in the localities where the proportion of workingmen having homes is the largest there is the smallest number of labor disturbances. The strikes in Philadelphia are few compared with those occurring in communities where the domiciliary situation of the working people is not as comfortable. The Quaker City is noted for being the city of homes, a very considerable proportion of them being owned by the sons of toil.

It is found that while a working man has a home—is a property holder—he has a stake in preserving the good order of the community. He feels himself as belonging to the class that is looked to for the maintenance of the public peace. There may be times when he considers it a duty to take a stand to resist imposition in regard to wages, or to assume the cause of less fortunately situated associates, but his property interest renders him cautious about movements that may result in serious industrial and social disturbance, and creates in him an aversion to the wiles of the demagogue.

By the increase of the feeling of ownership among workingmen, and the growth of that influence which springs from the word "home," a moral barrier is raised against the frequent occurrence of labor disturbances. If employers would more generally stimulate their employes with the aid of the most liberal policy practicable in the acquisition of homes, such scenes as those of the sacrifice of life at East St. Louis and the wide-spread business desolation along the Missouri Pacific system, would indeed be rare.—Patriot.

Ex-President Arthur is said to be rapidly improving in health.

Secretary Manning Receives Visitors.

Washington, April 25.—Secretary Manning has so far recovered that he is now allowed to see visitors. To-day he came down stairs for the first time since his attack, and his physicians say to-night that he will probably be able to go out for a drive to-morrow.

Cleveland's Views on the Labor Question.

WASHINGTON, April 23.

The President's message on the labor question has attracted a great deal of attention here to-day, in and out of Congress. Generally the comments are very favorable, the suggestions of the President regarding government interposition being regarded as eminently wise and proper. While the plan of establishing a commission, to be a part of the Labor Bureau, for the arbitration on the voluntary references of the parties concerned of disputes between employers and employees, may not cover all the requirements of the case, it is almost universally believed that the government could not go further than this plan proposes in the settlement of labor troubles.

The occurrences in the principle of voluntarily arbitration, which Mr. Gould advocated in his testimony before the Curtin committee yesterday, is the subject of general remark. But the President's plan goes further. It provides a permanent Board of Arbitration, which has the force and influence of government authority.

EFFECT ON THE HOUSE BILL.

There is also some comment as to the effect of the President's message upon the House arbitration bill which is now before the Senate with several amendments. The House bill provides for a special abitration, making the submission of disputes to the arbitrators provided for by law and results mandatory upon the parties concerned. This is in direct conflict with the principle laid down in the President's message. It is generally believed to-day that the message very materially changes the status of this bill and that it will not go through the Senate unless amended in accordance with the President's views and from comments among Senators the inference is that this will be done.

The House, which was the only branch of Congress in session to-day, took up the President's message early, and after a short but interesting debate referred it to the labor committee, with instructions to report upon it on or before the 15th of May. In the discussion in which Messrs. Randall, McCreery and others participated, the message was very highly commended.

EIGHT HOURS A DAY.

The Anthracite Coal Miners Making a Determined Stand on the Question.

WILKESBARRE, April 23.

It is estimated that there are 20,000 miners and laborers in the anthracite coal regions who are either members of the Miners and Laborers' Amalgamated Association or Knights of Labor For some time past the members of these organizations have been agitating the eight hour question, and through the efforts of George Harris, of Pittsburg, president of the Miners and Laborers' Amalgamated Association of Pennsylvania, and several other labor agitators, the men have been brought almost to a unit on the quesstion. At any rate, the Executive Board of the Miners and Laborers' Association of Luzerne County this evening followed the action of the Schuykill association and appointed committees to wait on all the coal operators in the county and notify them that on and after May 1 the miners and laborers only propose to work eight hours a day and that if the operators refuse then to have the matter submitted to arbitration.

The general opinion is that the operators, at least a majority of them, will submit to the demand made upon them. What will follow in case a compromise is not effected can only be conjectured. Some think there will be a long lockout, affecting the whole anthracite field while others claim that there are too many idle men in the country for the miners to get up a strike. The leaders of the Amalgamated Association say that the operators will meet them half way and that there will be no strike.

A DRUGGIST'S VER DICT.—W. E. George, one of the principal druggists of Philipsburg, Pa., writes:

"J. A. McDonald, Reedsville, Pa.

Dear Sir:—One of the most prominent citizens of our city and a gentleman well-known and highly respected in the surrounding country, called at our store and voluntarily offered to go before a justice of the peace and testify in an affidavit to the virtue of your Blood Purifier, saying that he had used but three bottles, and was now entirely cured of a distressing and long continued attack of erysipelas., after having tried a number of other remedies without receiving any noticeable benefit. Please send us one dozen by express. We never had a medicine in our store that sells as readily or gave such universal satisfaction as your Blood Purifier."

For scrofula, erysipelas, tetter, salt rheum, skin diseases, humors, sores, eruptions, pimples, blotches, swellings, tumors, boils, ulcers, scald head, ringworm, syphillis, and all blood disorders, no remedy ever devised equals in power and efficacy McDonald's Great Blood Purifier or Sarsaparillian Alterative. Warranted. Seventy-five cents per bottle at all dealers in medicine.

Miscellaneous News.

Another Galician Town in Flames.

VIENNA, April 26.—A dispatch from Lisko, in Galicia, reports that town on fire. Three-fourths of it is already destroyed.

Granger's Picnic.

Mechanicsburg, Pa., April 25.—At the meeting of prominent grangers, held here recently, the great picnic this year was fixed for August 30, to continue one week in Williams Grove.

Advance in the Price of Coke.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 23.—At a meeting of the Connelsville Coke Syndicate to-day the price of coke was advanced to $1.50 per ton for furnaces, $1.60 for dealers and $1.75 for foundries. Heretofore the price has been $1.35 for furnaces and dealers and $4.50 for foundries. The increase will take effect on May 1. The syndicate thinks the improved condition of the iron trade warrants the advance.

Furniture Burned in Williamsport.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., April 26.—The large furnishing and storage building of the Williamsport Furniture Manufacturing Company was destroyed by fire. The building was frame, 5 stories high and filled with furniture, mostly unfinished. Some finished stock on the first floor was saved. Loss, $55,000; insurance, $40,000. The fire is supposed to have originated from a spark from a neighboring mill.

An Immense Oil Well.

Washington, Pa., April 23.—An immense oil well was struck yesterday on the Thayer & Co.'s lease of the Clark heirs. The first twenty-four hours, ending this morning, the well had done 425 barrels. To-day the drill was again set in motion and the production was soon increased so that it was necessary to remove the tools. For several hours past the well has been throwing out oil at the rate of from sixty-five to seventy barrels per hour, making undoubtedly the largest producer in the country. The people here are almost wild with excitement.

He Had Delirium Tremens.

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa., April 26,—A gray-haired countryman, John Deeters, aged 70 years, of Springfield Mines, came to this city on Saturday and indulged in too much of the fiery fluid. He spent the entire day in the saloons and in the evening he boarded a late train on the Williamsburg Branch Railroad for his home. While en route he was seized with delirium tremens, and ere the train hands or passengers could interfere he jumped from the train while running at a high rate of speed and striking his head was instantly killed.

The Third Pennsylvania Artillery.

Watsontown, April 23.—A preliminary meeting of members of the Third Pennsylvania Artillery and the One Hundred and Eighty-eighth Pennsylvania Infantry was held here to-day to effect an organization and arrange for a reunion. Major F. A. Reen, of Watsontown, was elected president of the association; A. J. Davis vice president; Henry T. Graves, secretary; James C. Kirchner, treasury, and Lemuel Shipman, of Sunbury, chairman of executive committee. The reunion will be held in Sunbury on September 29 and 30.

Blown Unknown into Eternity.

Mahony City, Pa., April 24.—Thomas A. Shomaker has the contract for driving a tunnel at the Buck Mountain Colliery, near this place. He kept a quantity of powder and dynamite in a large chest at its mouth. About 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon a Hungarian went to the chest to get some powder and it was supposed failed to extinguish his lamp, a spark from which ignited the powder and the whole mass of explosives went off at once, blowing the unfortunate man to atoms. The shock was distinctly felt 3 miles from the accident. The chest was standing near a spring, around which a crowd is almost constantly congregated, but fortunately at this time it was deserted. The name of the dead man is unknown.

TRAMPS IN WISCONSIN.

A Reign of Terror Inaugurated by the Nomads' Bold Depredations.

LANCASTER, Wis., April 26.—This county is overrun with tramps, who travel in bands. They have inaugurated a reign of terror in the northern portion of the county, adjoining the Wisconsin River. That section is sparsely settled, making the work of intimidation easy. Sheep and hogs are taken wherever found, and recently the depredators have become so bold that they have run off a number of valuable horses. A sort of headquarters has been established in a hut on the Wisconsin River, where the different bands bring their plunder and rendezvous pending another foray. Two valuable two-years-olds were stolen from a farmer named Stippich a few days ago, but the pursuit was so hot and vigorous that the tramps thought best to drop the team.

The increasing boldness of the gangs has led to the organization of a vigilance committee. A posse of citizens are now en route for the outlaws' camp with the intention of driving them from the county. As the country in that vicinity is bluffy and full of caves and other hiding places, it is not thought they will be successful in their purposes. In case any resistance is offered bloodshed will follow, as the farmers are thoroughly enraged. So great is the terror of the vagabonds that women and children object to being left alone in the farm houses.

—Now that sudden and violent changes of weather occur every twenty four hours, almost everyone has a troublesome cold, which, if neglected, may produce results that may trouble you for the remainder of your life. Dr. Kessler's Celebrated English Cough Medicine is especially deserving praise in this class of complaints. It never fails! It never disappoints! Instructions for treatment of croup and whooping-cough also accompany each bottle. Every family, especially where there is children, should have a bottle. Dissatisfied buyers can have their money refunded.

—In accordance with a constitutional provision the Lutheran Sunday school of this place will after the first of May open half an hour earlier than through the winter. It will be nine o'clock a. m., after this, and that by the sexton's time, which is generally half an hour faster than other people's.

—THE only reliable catarrh remedy on the market to-day is Ely's Cream Balm, being free from poisonous drugs and other offensive odors. It has cured thousands of acute and chronic cases when all other remedies have failed. It quickly cures cold in the head and catarral headache. Price 50 cents. 17-4t.

—The foundation walls for J. W. Stover's new store room on Main St., are nearly completed and will be ready for the erection of the frame work in a few days. The building will be 65 feet in depth and 18 feet wide, one story high, with an attractive glass front. John Kerstetter has the contract for the carpenter work.

—John H. Miller, the butcher, had a refrigerator built in his meat market on Main street by that boss mechanic, John Kerstetter, Jr. Of course it is a very satisfactory job, and John will now be able to keep his meat cool in the warmest weather. An awning in front of the building would still add to the commodities of Miller's meat market.

ACCIDENT. — On Monday evening Master Harry Leitzell, a young son of P. P. Leitzell, working on Cassler's saw mill, near Pine Creek, had the misfortune to have his leg broken by a heavy log, which happened to roll on his limb. Dr. Musser, Jr., was at once summoned to attend to the fracture and the boy we believe, is getting along right well.

—The town of Coburn hankers after manufacturies, foundries, roller flouring mills, and the like industries. Just the thing we have been wishing for in Millheim for the last ten years, but somehow the capitalists treat this section of the country as if no good could come out of it. We can only say to them in the language of one of the first disciples—Come and see!

—Impure blood can be made pure, boils, pimples, and other eruptions removed—the skin assuming a clear and healthy appearance—all by taking Simmons Liver Regulator, purely vegetable.

—Some five strong teams were at work yesterday in removing the heavy timbers of Jacob Dutweiler's barn from Penn street to his farm. Dr. Stam has men engaged in tearing down the walls on which said barn rested and soon the last trace of the building, that was an eyesore to our citizens for many years, will be gone.

—We are reliably informed that steps are being taken to organize a G. A. R. post in this town, the first meeting for that purpose to be held on Friday of next week. The post will start with a membership of at least twenty-five and expect to rent a room above the new hardware, corner of Main and Penn streets. A proper observance of Memorial Day may now be expected.

—Miss Fannie E. Gray, the managing editress of the Bellefonte Daily News was on Tuesday of last week joined in holy wedlock with Mr. C. L. Gates, who has also been connected with the Republican and News for several years. The bride is the stepdaughter of Mr. E. T. Tuten, at whose residence the happy event took place, Rev. Laurie performing the marriage ceremonies. We extend our congratulations to the bride and groom.

—Musser & Alexander, our enterprising marble men, erected Mr. Henry Keen's fine tombstone on the new cemetery last week. It is a very imposing monument, marking the last resting place of the deceased of Mr. Keen's family, and is the first for Fairview Cemetery. It occupies a prominent position, being situated on a gentle elevation, and may be seen from quite a distance. Several other fine monuments are soon to follow, their epitaphs telling of the departure of loved ones.

—The band, fourteen strong and dressed in full uniform, marched to Aaronsburg on Monday evening, to give Dr. S. C. Musser one of their best serenades in honor of his safe return from Europe. When they arrived at the house they found Sumner absent attending to a professional call. But his parents hospitably entertained the boys until he came back. Upon his return he heartily shook the hands of all and expressed his appreciation of the treat. The young doctor's general appearance indicates that the trip was beneficial to his health, and from his remarks it could be gleaned that he was exceedingly well impressed with all he had seen and heard while away.

AN EXCITING SCENE.—People returning from Bellefonte on Tuesday afternoon brought the news of an exciting incident which occurred in the Court House that forenoon. An Italian, by the name of Vincent Julto, having been found guilty of stealing a watch from Richard's jewelry store, was sentenced to one year's imprisonment in the penitentiary. After receiving his sentence he took his seat within the bar. An eye witness who sat near the culprit tells us that he noticed him nervously counting his beads as if praying and then quickly pulling out a table fork which was in his inside coat pocket, he stabbed himself five times in quick succession in his left breast, at the same time falling from his chair. The heavy vest he was wearing prevented the sharp prongs of the fork to enter his body very deeply. The instrument was at once taken from him and he was carried to the Grand Jury room, where he again attempted suicide by trying to choke himself to death with a strap. He was then taken to jail and the first thing he did there was to break a piece of glass from a window with which to cut his throat, and it was found advisable to put him in shackles. The fellow is thought to be cranky and it is feared that he will yet find a way to kill himself.

—On Sunday afternoon, Stella, the only daughter and oldest child of Mr. & Mrs. Wm. Miller, of this place, was buried. She was a bright and lovely little girl in the blooming age of six years and three months and was a great favorite both of her bereaved parents and of regretful friends. On Monday previous to her untimely death she had a heavy fall while playing in the yard, striking with her forehead the wheel of a baby carriage. Nothing serious was thought of this mishap at the time. But on Tuesday evening she took violently sick from overheating herself and was in an unconscious condition nearly all the time up to her death on Friday forenoon. One of the attending physicians declared that her death resulted from congestion of the brain. The funeral was largely attended, the M.E. Sunday school taking part almost in a body, while the town people were strongly represented. The services which were held in the M. E. church at 3 o'clock were conducted by the pastor, Rev. Heckman, who preached a very touching sermon, assisted by Rev. Wasson, of the U. B. church. From the church the white coffin containing the corpse was carried to the cemetery by four young men, followed by Stella's Sunday-schoolmates and friends. At the grave the infant class sang an appropriate hymn. Stella's departure is a severe bereavement to her loving parents and the sympathy of all is with them. May this their heavy affliction be allayed by the soothing thought that Stella safely rests in the arms of Jesus, the good shepherd, where no sigh of anguish sore heaves that little bosom more.

IN MEMORIAM.—At a regular meeting of the U. B. Sunday School of Millheim, held April 25th, 1886, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS it has pleased our Heavenly Father in his allwise providence to remove from our midst our esteemed and beloved schoolmate Stella Miller,

Therefore be it Resolved, 1st, That we humbly and meekly bow in submission to our Father's Divine will.

2nd. That in the death of Stella Miller our Sunday School has lost an earnest and faithful member.

3rd. That while we deeply mourn her loss, we will cherish her memory for her unselfish, kind, gentle and amiable disposition.

4th. That we as a Sunday School deeply sympathize with the parents in this hour of their sad bereavement in the loss of their only daughter, and commend them to the care of our Heavenly Father who doeth all things well.

5th. That these resolutions be entered on the record of our Sunday School, and that they be published in the "Millheim Journal" and in the Intinerant, and a copy be sent to the parents of the deceased.

C. W. WASSON, Pastor.
A. R. ALEXANDER, Supt.
F. D. LUSE, Asst. Supt.
S. D. MILLER, Sec.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.—Inasmuch as it pleased the good Shepherd to remove from our midst one of our scholars, Stella Miller, Therefore,

Resolved, That we humbly and submissively bow to the will of Divine Providence in thus calling one of our most interesting, punctual and affectionate scholars home from time to eternity, knowing that our loss is her eternal gain.

Resolved, That we most heartily sympathize with the bereaved parents and friends, in their great affliction, and that we humbly pray the Master to sustain them by his grace, believing however that this dispensation of Providence will strengthen the ties that bind friends on earth to friends in heaven.

Resolved, That we furnish a copy of these resolutions to the Editor "Millheim Journal" for publication, also to present the parents with a copy, and to place them in the record of the Ev. S. S.

Wheeling, W. Va., April 26th, 1886.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—Perhaps the readers of the Journal would be interested in a letter from this city. It contains about thirty-three thousand inabitants, is situated on the Ohio river and has this commercial advantage besides that of three railroads and extensive manufacturies which are located here, such as furnaces, nail factories, glass works, pottery, wholesale houses, and a large number of industries of all kinds.

In a city of this size and make-up of every nationality under the sun, it may be assumed that there is considerable wickedness. Saloons abound, the Sabbath is desecrated, by open violence of law and order and the works of the evil one are bold and open.

To counteract these tendencies and create a purer atmosphere morally, the churches are doing a good work and prominent among the faithful and devoted city pastors is Rev. E. H. Dornblaser, of the English Luth. church, who is growing in favor and popularity not only among his own people, but in all the benevolent enterprises of the city he is deeply interested. His work steadily increases and additions to the church are made every few weeks.

The Y. M. C. A. is doing faithful service here too in seeking out and saving the young men. The asociation has comfortable rooms, a good library and all the attractions of a christian society.

The W. C. T. U. is about entering a campaign of vigorous warfare for the passage of the law requiring the study of Hygiene in the public schools, a law similar to the one passed in Pennsylvania and other states. The hope of the nation are the boys and girls of to-day, and it is the place of the christian mothers and sisters to ask legistatures that they be rightly taught and guarded from the snares of the direst enemy of the home—the saloon. Temperance work is much needed in all our cities and villages. A sentiment for total abstinence from all intoxicants and uncleanness and favoring prohibition should be encouraged and fostered. There is too much conservation and lethargy on this question which so closely affects the sanctity of the home and social circle. Even among temperance people and church members there is a looseness of opinions and lack of conscience. It is well to agitate—agitate! The churches and philanthropic enterprises are the bulwarks of civil and religious liberty and are the potent powers which support and uphold our Republic.

Miss Jennie Smith, the evangelist will hold a series of meetings here in a few weeks. Her miraculous faith cure, after nineteen years of suffering, has given her a national reputation.

A few days ago accompanied by my friend, Miss Nannie Britt, whose recollections of her lovely visit in your beautiful valley are often recalled, I spent a few days in the country with some German friends of the finest culture, who have been residents of America for a number of years. The mother, Mrs. Helwig, is almost seventy years old and it is a pleasure indeed to hear her play Beethoven, Mozart and the grand music from the old masters with a touch and soulful expression that shows study.

The Easter services in all the churches were largely attended, the sermons were eloquent, the music fine and the floral decorations were very profuse and beautiful.

The city missionary is Miss Boyd, who goes among the poor and neglected, reads the Bible, distributes tracts, converses on the importance of the soul's salvation and thus accomplishes much good in a noble, womanly way. P. E. D.

SMITH TOWN.

Next will be corn planting.

Sallie Ulrich, who is staying at W. F. Smith's, was in Millheim for a week, keeping house for her father, David Ulrich.

Smith Town is well represented at Bellefonte this week.

The grass and grain fields look very promising since the late showers.

Mr. Osman, of Centre Hall, who taught the pike school last winter, spent Easter among us.

B. F. Frankenberger bought a bran new reaper last week. Now look out for some warm work in harvest.

Mrs. C. W. Hartman, of Millheim, was the guest of her mother, Mrs. Frankenberger, last week.

Some of our farmers had their land ready for sowing oats, beginning of last week, but they waited to "sow in the sign." When the sign was here it rained and the oats didn't get sowed. It's always wiser to sow in the ground.

This week ends the first year of Jumbo's writing for the JOURNAL. Some liked his items, others didn't, while the rest did not read them at all. Experienced people say it's an impossibility to please all, and that is exactly our fix. JUMBO.

SPRING MILLS.

S. Soars, our gentlemanly railroad agent is back again. He was away to visit his sick mother at Muncy for a few days.

Rev. D. M. Wolf, our worthy county superintendent, has returned from a visit to his friends in the western part of the state.

The tree men were busy this week making their spring delivery in this place and getting in the cash for the same. The number of trees that have been delivered during the past week shows that our people take an interest in raising good fruit. * * *

AARONSBURG.

COBURN.

As your former correspondent from this section has give up writing we will endeavor to give you a few items from this lively village each week. We will not be personal in our items and try to get them up in such shape as not to offend or displease any.

Coburn is naturally situated for manufacturing establishments and would be a good point for capital to invest. We want and should have a tannery, roller flouring mill, nail works, foundry, &c., and the day will come when some one will see the advantages to be had here and make use of them.

A traveling auctioneer has been holding forth in F. P. Barker's storeroom for the last week, but business does not seem to be heavy with him.

Mr. P. H. Stover is once more walking the streets of his native village.

Mr. Felix Breninghouse is preparing to erect a dwelling house.

Our new hotel building is to be occupied some time in May by Mrs. Clark.

Our new merchant, Mr. Swengel, moves into the house vacated by Mrs Clark.

Everybody seems pleased with the warm weather except Gettig and Campbell, because they cannot weigh coal at present.

The Lutheran congregation had worship last Saturday, followed by communion services on Sabbath. Twenty-seven persons were admitted into church membership, 20 by confirmation and 7 by certificate. The congregation now numbers about 61.

Messrs. Barker & Seriff have purchased the vacant lot, situate between their respective properties and are clearing off the trees and rubbish.

A party by the name of Hackenberg is erecting a dwelling house on railroad street.

We noticed jolly Ale Long on our streets Monday and also noticed Al. Frank following him at a respectful distance to see that Ale did not get into mischief. VALE.

'YOU KNOW HOW IT IS YOURSELF.'—There is not a particle of doubt but you have to this day a vivid recollection of the horrible, nauseating doses of worm-seed tea or syrups forced down your throat twenty years ago by an over-solicituous aunt or grandmother who pronounced your case worms. You will be able to appreciate a vermifuge like McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders. The most effectual and reliable worm destroyer of the age. So easy and pleasant to take the patient will never know a medicine is being administered. Money refunded to dissatisfied buyers.

WOLF'S STORE.

Fruit prospects are promising.

The copious showers of Saturday and Sunday greatly revived young and tender plants.

C. C. Brumgard has the agency for the Peerless Washer, which is pronounced a first-class article wherever it has been tried.

Ammon E. Strayer's subscription school at Brumgart's opened on the 19th instant, and is progressing finely. A fair number of scholars are in attendanee.

We are sorry to hear of Prof. John H. DeLong's close confinement to his bed with inflammatory rheumatism.

Levi Strayer has improved the appearance of his house with a coat of paint.

Geo. Wolfe is busily engaged in the improvement of the desirable home of the late Thos. Wolfe, of which he is the present occupant.

Quite a number of the gayer sex visited our remote houses on Sunday, among whom we noticed the smiling faces of Rebecca Corman and Lizzie Haines. Call again.

Cheap coon hides at Thos. Morris'.

John K. Hosterman, that successful farmer and excellent neighbor, has his corn fields ready for the reception of the golden grain.

Miss Sallie M. Meyer, of Rebersburg, is giving instructions in instrumental music to quite a number of our young folks, and they all speak of her in very favorable terms.

Mr. John C. Emerick is serving a jurorship at the county capital this week and after his discharge expects to go to the city of brotherly love for a supply of goods.

John C. Morris is still engaged in the tree business and is on the road and busy selling nearly every day. DUNO?

An Efficient Remedy
In all cases of Bronchial and Pulmonary Affections is AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. As such it is recognized and prescribed by the medical profession, and in many thousands of families, for the past forty years, it has been regarded as an invaluable household remedy. It is a preparation that only requires to be taken in very small quantities, and a few doses of it administered in the early stages of a cold or cough will effect a speedy cure, and may, very possibly, save life. There is no doubt whatever that
Ayer's Cherry Pectoral
Has preserved the lives of great numbers of persons, by arresting the development of Laryngitis, Bronchitis, Pneumonia, and Pulmonary Consumption, and by the cure of those dangerous maladies. It should be kept ready for use in every family where there are children, as it is a medicine far superior to all others in the treatment of Croup, the alleviation of Whooping Cough, and the cure of Colds and Influenza, ailments peculiarly incidental to childhood and youth. Promptitude in dealing with all diseases of this class is of the utmost importance. The loss of a single day may, in many cases, entail fatal consequences. Do not waste precious time in experimenting with medicines of doubtful efficacy, while the malady is constantly gaining a deeper hold, but take at once the speediest and most certain to cure,

Restful Prayer.

Prayer, says the Independent, is not always petition. It is sometimes, and ought to be oftener, thanksgiving. It is sometimes confession. It is sometimes adoration. It is often a uttered and unutterable communion. That is a beautiful illustration of one phase of prayer—the communion phase—which is related of the little girl of a hard-worked and somewhat nervous clergyman, who could only compose to advantage when he was absolutely alone and undisturbed. One day he thoughtlessly left his study door unlocked, and his little three-year-old child softly opened the door and came in. The minister was disturbed, and a little impatiently lifted up his face to the face of his child and asked:

"My child, what do you want?"

"Nothing, papa."

"Then what did you come in here for?"

"Just because I wanted to be with you." And the little one sat down quietly on the floor and said not a word. Surely that is a form of prayer that we need to cultivate in this busy day of ours. To come into His presence and wait before Him, wanting nothing but to be with Him—how such an hour now and again would rest us!

We have a friend, not a Christian, who leaves his business place down town, now and again, especially when he is being particularly burdened with care, and rides up to the Catholic Cathedral on Fifth Avenue, where he sits down for an hour, and then goes back to business. He says, "It is so quiet up there, it rests and quiets me." How much more might we find a sweet and quiet resting-place for our weary and and tired souls and bodies by just resting in the Lord, sitting without petition at his feet, or as John, leaning our heads upon his bosom.

"LADIES."

Cultivation alone will not make a lady of a vulgar woman, nor a gentleman of a boor. Innate vulgarity will manifest itself in spite of all forms of politeness and etiquette. To a certain class of persons, indifference is the test of high breeding. If you educate a man or a woman to insensibility, he in their view is a gentleman, and she is a lady.

A woman was one day brought before the judge of a police court. She said in her defence:

"Me and another lady was a-having a few words, and she called me a 'hin-dewidual,' and I ups with a pail of water and ebucked it all over her, and that began the row between me and the other lady."

Me and the other lady, indeed!

The following notice was once put up over the door of a show:

"No lady or gentleman admitted into this show in a state of intoxication."

A hand-bill in St. Louis read:

"One hundred rats to be killed by one dog in ten minutes. None but gentlemen are expected te be present on this occasion."

The advertisement of a dog-fight in a western town read:

"Tickets admitting both gentleman and lady can be had for one dollar."

A very elegantly-dressed woman once rudely pushed a man from a crowded sidewalk, saying as she did so:

"Ain't you got any more manners than to stand right in front of a lady?"

A shabbily-dressed woman accidentally ran against a super-looking woman whose dress and manner indicated the perfect lady.

"I beg your pardon, madam," said the poor woman, in the most humble manner.

"You clumsy thing!" angrily retorted the eleganty-clad woman.

Which was the lady?

To Regulate

THE FAVORITE HOME REMEDY is warranted not to contain a single particle of Mercury or any injurious substance, but is purely vegetable.

It will Cure all Diseases caused by Derangement of the Liver, Kidneys and Stomach.

If your Liver is out of order, then your whole system is deranged. The blood is impure, the breath offensive; you have headache, feel languid, dispirited and nervous. To prevent a more serious condition, take at once Simmons

LIVER REGULATOR. If you lead a sedentary life, or suffer with Kidney Affections, avoid stimulants and take Simmons Liver Regulator. Sure to relieve.

If you have eaten anything hard of digestion, or feel heavy after meals or sleepless at night, take a dose and you will feel relieved and sleep pleasantly.

If you are a miserable sufferer with Constipation, Dyspepsia and Biliousness, seek relief at once in Simmons Liver Regulator. It does not require continual dosing, and costs but a trifle. It will cure you.

If you wake up in the morning with a bitter, bad taste in your mouth,

TAKE Simmons Liver Regulator. It corrects the Bilious Stomach, sweetens the Breath, and cleanses the Furred Tongue. Children often need some safe Cathartic and Tonic to avert approaching sickness. Simmons Liver Regulator will relieve Colic, Headache, Sick Stomach, Indigestion, Dysentery, and the Complaints incident to Childhood.

At any time you feel your system needs cleansing, toning, regulating without violent purging, or stimulating without intoxicating, take

Simmons Liver Regulator.

Confidence in honesty of Invalids. We treat ALL Diseases, either Sex, however caused, and receive pay after cure is effected. Describe case fully, and send stamp for instructions. DR. BAKER, Box 104, Buffalo, N.Y.

Surface Indications

What a miner would very properly term "surface indications" of what is beneath, are the Pimples, Sties, Sore Eyes, Boils, and Cutaneous Eruptions with which people are annoyed in spring and early summer. The effete matter accumulated during the winter months, now makes its presence felt, through Nature's endeavors to expel it from the system. While it remains, it is a poison that festers in the blood and may develop into Scrofula. This condition causes derangement of the digestive and assimilatory organs, with a feeling of enervation, languor, and wearisness—often lightly spoken of as "only spring fever." These are evidences that Nature is not able, unaided, to throw off the corrupt atoms which weaken the vital forces. To regain health, Nature must be aided by a thorough blood-purifying medicine; and nothing else is so effective as which is sufficiently powerful to expel from the system even the taint of Hereditary Scrofula.

The medical profession indorse AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, and many attestations of the cures effected by it come from all parts of the world. It is, in the language of the Hon. Francis Jewett, ex-State Senator of Massachusetts and ex-Mayor of Lowell, "the only preparation that does real, lasting good."

Vegetable Balsamic

ELIXIR

For the cure of

Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Influenza, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the Throat, Chest, and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir is used its efficacy is at once manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—At its commencement it is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the Lungs; then an inflamation, when the cough is rather dry, local fever, and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflamation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.

It heals the ulcerated surfaces and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the cause, consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions, free.

Price 35 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 per bottle.

QUAKER

Is the Best

TABLE SAUCE.

Thousands of articles are now manufactured that in former years had to be imported, paying high import duty as it is now being done on Lea & Perrins table sauce; the QUAKER TABLE SAUCE takes its place; it has been pronounced by competent judges just as good and even better. The QUAKER SAUCE has Slowly but surely gained great importance and is replacing the very best imported sauce on the shelf of the grocer, the tables of the restaurant and the tables of the rich and poor men, greatly prized and relished by all on account of its piquancy, aroma, taste, strength and pureness. The inventor has by years of study of the secret virtues contained in the aromatic spices of the Indies and China, such as mace, nutmeg, cinnamon, genuine Jamaica ginger, and peppers and buds of trees unknown to most men, and by long practice succeeded to combine their extracts in such a liquid form as we now find it, of agreeable taste, and so invigorating as to be taken in place of stomach bitters. By manufacturing this sauce here, heavy import duties and freights are saved, and it is sold at a lower figure to the dealer, who making a better profit on Quaker Sauce can sell it to the consumer chesper than the very best imported article hardly equaling ours. If your grocer does not keep it, write us for prices, etc. Sold in bottles or by the gallon.
